

Clarence C. Hunt

September 6, 1920 - March 13, 2019

CLARENCE C. HUNT was born on September 6, 1920 in Petersburg, VA. His parents were the late Annie Alston and Holliman Hunt and his three siblings, John, Mary and Alberta Hunt preceded Clarence in death. His education was obtained in the public school of Petersburg. Later, he gained work as a ship builder in the naval yard in Norfolk, VA.

Clarence was drafted into the U.S. Army in Virginia in 1941 and attained the rank of Sergeant. He was among those who were at Normandy on June 6, 1944. He recalled leaving Boston, Massachusetts, landing in Liverpool, England and crossing the English Channel. He shared that he saw the horrors of many death and much disfigurement. He was honorably discharged from the United States Army. His distinctive service to his country was recognized through presentation to him of coveted medals and certificates. Following service to his country, Clarence was employed by Bethlehem Steel Corporation and worked in the coke ovens at Sparrows Point. It is to be noted that he attended cooking and baking classes after having given military service to his country. He joined Providence Baptist Church at the Edmondson Avenue site.

He married Eva Hunt on September 7, 1988. They enjoyed a very loving relationship that included worshipping together. They often traveled with the Providence membership and looked forward to attending to the Lott Carey Conventions.

Clarence especially enjoyed attending baseball games, Artscape, the Maryland State Fairs and the AFRAM Festivals. He also found pleasure in listening to religious radio broadcasts and being a passenger on Inner Harbor cruise ships.

Clarence Hunt was an integral part of the Providence Baptist Church family. He served as a Trustee and he held membership in the DES Progressive Workers Club, and he was a very proud inductee into the Providence Baptist Nineties' Club. He thoroughly enjoyed his role on the Usher Board. Brother Hunt also ably served at one time as the night clerk for Providence Baptist Church and he took his role seriously! He also participated in the Bible Study Sessions.

Brother Hunt was especially fond of the color blue, and he often had cravings for french fries and fried chicken.

On March 21, 2019, while at University Hospital, Clarence C. Hunt entered into Eternal Rest. To cherish the wonderful memories of their union, he leaves his dear wife, Eva G. Hunt. Survivors also include a loving stepdaughter, Annette King; three sisters-in-law, Patricia Moore and Christine Hatcher and Alice Moore; his caring church family and friends.
