In 2012, she wrote a book titled "I'm On My Way", which is an inspiration religious poetry book to help Christians learn more about God and his Kingdom.

Debbie was loved by many. Her physical presence will be missed deeply. Her eyes had the most mesmerizing glisten to them. Debbie loved music, dancing, and being near those she loved. She was a daughter, sister, mother, aunt, and friend to all who knew her. We will remember the sound of her laughter. We will remember her for being uplifting. We will remember her long beautiful locks. We will remember the blessing she was to so many people.

Debbie is preceded in death by her father, Norman Samuel Pope Jr., and her two sisters, Angela Edwards and Pamela Pope. She is survived by her mother, Martha Powell, by her three brothers, Gary Murray, Orlando Pope, Norman Pope, and her sister Sandy Pope. In addition, Debbie is survived by her children, Jaron Whitehurst, Jerrel Hill, Carla Hyman and bonus children Brandi Hyman, Toni Hyman, and Jasmine Hyman. She is also survived by 2 great-grandchildren Isabella Brown and Elizabeth Brown. She was sister-in-law to LaDonya Murray and Danielle Pope. Debbie was also an aunt to many nieces and nephews and had a host of cousins and many dear lifelong friends.

We have great comfort in knowing that Debbie is now in a place of extreme joy where death will be no more and mourning and crying and pain will be no more. If there was anything that she could communicate to any of us, perhaps she would say.

Don't weep for me for I've made it home. Through heaven's gates there I may roam. Wipe your tears and dry your eyes I'm in a better place with heaven as my prize. Don't weep for me. No tears and no sorrow. Live life for Jesus. He alone promises tomorrow.
