

Latanya Patricia Marshall

August 2, 1941 - June 20, 2019

LATANYA P. MARSHALL, daughter of the late Woodrow Williamson and Palestine Stone, was born on August 2, 1941 in Baltimore, MD. She left us on June 20, 2019 after a lengthy illness.

She was proud to receive her education under the Oblate Sisters of Providence at St. Frances Academy as well as Dunbar High School in Baltimore. A self-starter and having worked from the age of eleven, her career path took her to eventually becoming Executive Director of Community Living in Frederick, MD, before retiring to pursue a career in real estate. Throughout her career she attended continuing education programs at Johns Hopkins University, New York University, and Georgetown University.

Latanya was predeceased by her brother, Harry Downes Jr.; her son, Shawn Rice; and her grandson, Bradley Rice. She is survived by her husband, Cyrus Wesley; her children, Brad Rice, Jacquetta Rice, Justin Marshall, and Heather Marshall; and her grandchildren, Danielle, Matthew, Jessica, Shawan, and Shawn, of whom she was always very proud. Latanya leaves behind her great-grandchildren, Marques, Peyton, and Quentin Jr, as well as the foster children whose lives she also had a profound impact on.

Latanya was devoted to her family and was a deeply generous spirit. She loved traveling and had visited more than twenty countries across four continents in her life; exposing her family and foster kids to new places was a lifelong passion. She will be sincerely missed by her family and friends, and all those who were blessed to know her.
