

Thomas "Booty" C Adams Jr

October 13, 1950 - June 23, 2021

(BOOTY) THOMAS C. ADAMS JR., son of the late Thomas C. Adams Sr. and Gertrude I. Waters Adams, was born on October 13, 1950. Booty peacefully made the transition to another plane on June 23, 2021.

Booty received his education at Polytechnic High School in Baltimore. He later was drafted into the military and departed with an honorable discharge. After returning home he attended and graduated from the Community College of Baltimore with a degree in music. He produced, wrote music and owned his own record label. He was always making sure family and friends were stocked with good music. He also was a regular commentator on the show Maryland Viewpoint and delivered several thought-provoking opinions and commentary. Booty graduated from Towson University where he received a degree in business administration. He never boasted or talked about his accomplishments in life. Booty could have you dying laughing or make you want to duke it out with his no-nonsense point of view. He loved posting pictures of family, fishing, writing, reading and talking to people. Booty's life work was educating the community about Black/African History and he encouraged everyone he met to love themselves and their people. Booty retired from his career in business management and accounting upon his illness.

He married the former Carol Everett, and out of this union came an adopted daughter Kimberly Barbour and two grandsons. Booty and Carol were married over 39 years but had a friendship that lasted 55 years, which was full of love, laughter, excitement and respect. Booty made numerous friends wherever he went and he never left a friend behind. He was always a true friend. He was devoted to his family and loved each and everyone dearly. Many called him "Big Cuz". Booty was a protector of his family. He always said if there was a bear coming; it would have to come past him first.

He leaves to mourn: his loving and devoted wife, Carol "Nu" Adams; loving daughter, Kimberly Barbour; two grandsons, Kai and Kaiden; two sisters, Mary C. Adams, Robyn Bailey; one brother, Lester Adams; three sisters-in-laws, three brothers-in-law, two aunts, two uncles, a multitude of nieces, nephews and a host of cousins and friends that will miss him dearly. Booty always said he is a representation of all the families, The Adams, Waters, Becketts and Beals

“ The question you didn't answer. I knew
Carol "Nu" Adams

We were so young when we met.
Hey girl, where you going? To the store I answered.
Me 15 yrs old, you 20.

No glamour, no pretense, no muss no fuss. That was us!!! Just friends we were immediately.

We talked for hours about life, our new loves and always wished each other well. I always asked questions and you always had an honest answer for everything.

Our friendship turned into love and respect.
That's what made it last.

We forgot about the past and moved to the future. A future with us living the vows and promises we made to each other.
Even the vows of till death do us apart.

I asked you Booty about our 40 year anniversary and for the first time you didn't answer me. You wouldn't make a promise you couldn't keep. I knew we didn't have long. I cherished every second we had left together from that moment on. I prayed God please just give me one more day, one more hour, or one more minute with you on earth with me.
For the first time I truly understand and believe you are in a better place.

Rest my wonderful loving husband and friend forever.
I will always love you and miss you. Till we meet again...AND WE SHALL.

“ I met Booty during the 60's when his family moved next door to us on Dupont Ave. We became very close friends and did just about everything together. We both played basketball for our high schools. (He played for Poly High and I played for Northern High). He was always a great friend to me and I loved him and his family. I will always have good thoughts of him and will never forget him. May he rest in peace.

“ Booty never failed to invoke his point of view with a sense of humor. He never bragged or boasted but I loved listening to him talk REAL talk
Rest in eternal peace
