REMEMBERING AARON PALMESE

“TRC LOR AARON”

MARCH 26, 1995 - MAY 6, 2018

Aaron D. Palmese was born March 26, 1995 in Richmond, Virginia and was the second child of four children born to Frances “Free” Palmese. Aaron transitioned from his earthbound body to join his God on May 6, 2018. Aaron moved to Baltimore at the young age of 10 years old and quickly made many long lasting friendships that he held dear until his untimely passing. He went on to graduate high school at Frederick Douglass High School in West Baltimore in 2014. When Aaron was a young boy he had a passion for art and drawing as well as writing poetry and rap music. He also was an avid chess player and swimmer who played on his schools chess team and was a member of the local swim team. He had a fond love of motorcycles and dirt bikes and could be seen at anytime riding around the city with his friends. Aaron finally found his life’s passion in creating hip hop and rap music that

appealed to the masses from Baltimore to the West Coast and even further.

He was on the brink of growing out of Baltimore City and onto a much bigger platform in his music endeavors.. Always being real and raw he depicted life from the inner city as he knew it first hand. Aaron's love of fashion landed him many opportunities to model for various up and coming urban clothing lines. Our Aaron was a hilarious, fun loving, and caring

Father , Son, Brother, Uncle, Cousin, Nephew and Friend that is missed sorely by so many who mourn his passing.

Aaron leaves to cherish one daughter who he loves so dearly, Little Ms.

Bri'elle

Chapman. (his Best Friend).

He also leaves a loving mother who was and still is her son's biggest supporter and fan,

Frances "Free" Palmese.

His step mom Christina Savage, his sister Asia Robertson, his older brother Anthony Palmese and youngest brother Malik Palmese-Savage. All of which he loved to the moon and back.

His grandmother Norma L. Ford , niece Alyssa Palmese, and nephew Andrew Palmese.

Father figure and Mentor Dominic Carter, Favorite cousin the late Kimberly Watkins who preceded Aaron in death, 2 years ago on Aaron's 21st birthday.

Brother/cousin Barnett "

BJ” Johnson, Cousins Tameka (Meeka) Jennifer and Heather (Nicqui) Scott whom he had a special close bond with and God Parent Nate’ Wynn as well as a host of uncles, aunts, cousins and friends
