*Alana—
your name still rises
like something warm from the oven,
a quiet reminder
that love never leaves empty.*

*You were a baker of more than pastries -
your hands created comfort,
your heart fed souls,
and every table you touched
felt like home.*

*God gave you a smile
that could soften the hardest days—
bright, unguarded,
a reflection of His light
shining through you.*

*Loyal and steadfast, you loved the way He teaches us to—
fully, faithfully,
without condition—
a gift to family and friends alike.*

*Thirty years
may feel too short to us,
but Heaven measures time differently.
And surely,
you were welcomed with open arms,
the words whispered gently: “Well done, good and faithful servant.”*

*Now you rest in His presence,
where there is no pain,
only peace—
and we hold onto the promise that this is not goodbye, but “until we meet again.”*

*Alana—
still with us in spirit,
still wrapped in God’s grace,
still shining
in every act of love you left behind.*
