

Alice Mae Jones

November 8, 1932 - July 11, 2010

Alice Mae Jones (Nee Moore), daughter of the late Leroy and Addie Lendora Moore, was born on November 8, 1932 in Pitt County, North Carolina. Alice received her education in North Carolina.

Alice was married in December 1951 in North Carolina to Ulysses Jones. They later relocated to Baltimore, Maryland. They were divorced in 1980. They had seven children.

Alice worked for many years as a caregiver and domestic worker. She was a dedicated worker.

Alice joined Charity Baptist Church-later renamed First Charity Baptist Church in 1955 under the leadership of Pastor Thomas C. Turner. Alice was saved and loved the Lord with all her heart. She was active until her health began to fail. She participated in the Senior Choir, Gospel Choir, Memorial Guild and Missionary Circle.

Alice is survived by her ex-husband, Ulysses Jones; children: Joyce M. Jones, Annabelle Tillman, Ulysses Jones, Jr., James S. Jones, Barbara Jones, the late Tommy Jones, and Doristine Jones along with two adopted great-grandchildren London Jones and Paris Jones; one daughter-in-law Nanceane "Nikki" Jones and one son-in-law Leon Tillman. She was blessed with three generations of grandchildren; three sisters Lendora Wilkins, Doris Davis (Thurmon), and Mary Wiggins (Robert), and one brother Leroy Moore, Jr. (Rose). She also leaves to mourn many family members, friends and a very special friend Lillie Missouri.

“ Dear Paris,

Just want to encourage you to stay strong and be the woman that your grandmother raised you to be. The best thing that you can do for her now is to follow what she taught you. I know that life looks very grim now, but this is the time that God can be your strongest supporter. Do as Sis. Jones would - lean on Jesus, pray, think on his Word, and do what's pleasing in God's sight. Make it your personal goal to be successful. Your grandmother would be so proud if you made something of your life, stay out of trouble, and live a Christian life like she did. I remember Sis Jones down through the years. She was a prayer warrior. She was one of the leaders for our tarry service. That was when people prayed for salvation and deliverance. She was always right there. Sis Jones was a powerful singer and leader in our church. With God's anointing, I think you can be a leader too. I already see how you have grown and your willingness to help me and others. I am here for you. Please continue to come to church and stay in contact with your church family. Love you much, Sis Areh
