

Almujeeb Alaji

August 24, 1951 - January 10, 2022

Almujeeb Alaji was born Lamont H. Noel to Ethel B. and Charles Noel, Jr. on August 24, 1951 and departed this life on January 10, 2022. He lived and attended schools in Baltimore City, and decided to change his name and religion. He later accepted L.A. as a nickname.

Bethlehem Steel Corporation (Sparrows Point), City of Baltimore and two fast food companies were employers of Almujeeb. L.A.'s training included barbering, culinary arts and insurance and income tax classes. He also studied real estate training to become a landlord.

He enjoyed cooking, dining out with family and friends, and was open to discussions; and subject material didn't matter, so long as he received the "The Last Word" (a word, much of time, you didn't see coming). He maintained quite a collection of books, movies, music and an interest in lottery and sports. L.A. was knowledgeable, comical, and stubborn... that was L.A. to the end.

He leaves to cherish his memory: son, Mark; goddaughters, Taye and Yenti; sisters, Yvonne and Charlotte; brothers, Eugene and Lester; many nieces, nephews and friends
