

Angela Keene Adams

July 18, 1958 - November 25, 2012

Angela Keene Adams was born July, 1, 1958 in Baltimore, Maryland to the late Leroy and Bessie Keene. Affectionately known as Angie, she was the youngest girl of eight sisters and seven brothers, Preceded in death by her husband Donald Patrick Adams Jr., Angie had been battling with illness for the past six months; and her struggle finally ended very early on the morning of November 25, 2012

Angie grew up in Baltimore City. She attended Northern High School, and graduated from Edinburg, Indiana job corps in 1977, at which time she received her high school diploma. Angie enjoyed going to Church, so she joined the Mt. Calvary Freewill Baptist Church, and she attended services whenever she could. Angie was a very versatile individual. She was interested in all kinds of things; therefore she was able to perform a variety of jobs with various employers.

On May 23, 1986 Angie married Donald Patrick Adams, Jr., better known as 'Duck'. They remained together steadfastly for the next nineteen years. The two names "Angie and Duck" were synonymous and always said in the same breath; and just like their names, two two of them were inseparable. They are now back together once again.

Angie wants to be remembered for having fun with her many nieces and nephews, whom she helped raise since she didn't have any children of her own. She loved eating with her siblings during family meals, picnics, holiday gatherings, and having fun; as well as caring for her mother and father. Furthermore, Angie was avid sports fan. She particularly enjoyed following the progress of the Baltimore Orioles and the Baltimore Ravens. Angie will truly be missed.

She leaves to cherish her memory: five sisters-Lorraine Hamilton, Lois Bailey, Ava Sparrow, Bernadette Keene, and Helen Keene Myles; two brothers – Walter David Melton and JayCee Keene; three brothers-in-law – Alex Hamilton, Maurice Bailey, and Douglas Sparrow; three sisters-in-law- Ann Pryor, Geraldine Melton, and Denise Mauriceette Keene; her devoted friend John DeLilly, and a host of other relatives and friends.

“ Please accept my sincere condolences for the lost of your dear loved one. One of the greatest sources of comfort at a time like this is a consideration of Jehovah’s promises for the dead. This statement made by our loving heavenly father will be very consoling to you: “I—I myself am the One that is comforting you people.” He also said: “Like a man whom his own mother keeps comforting, so I myself shall keep comforting you people.” (Isaiah 51:12; 66:13.)
