

Angela R. Harris

March 18, 1963 - April 7, 2017

Angela Ruth Harris was born March 18th, 1963. She was the daughter of the Herbert L. Harris and Ruth Harris who preceded her in death. She departed this life on April 7th, 2017, Angela attended Baltimore City public schools and received her high school diploma from Southwestern High School in 1981. She also took some classes at Coppin State College. She held numerous jobs, she was employed at Signet Bank, NCO, Nielson Company and BGE just before her illness.

Angela loved her family and made friends wherever she went. She is known for her big infectious smile. She would do anything and go out of her way to ensure peace and happiness. Angela was a flower in the garden of life. Angela really loved the lord and called on him until he decided to bring her home. Angela was a member of The New Second Missionary Baptist Church where she served as a trustee and also the nurses ministry.

Angela loved her granddaughter Aaliyah, she called her Mamas Big Girl and Pretty Widdy. She was the aunt that all the nieces and nephews loved and she did everything to make all the kids happy. Angela had one son Allen Booker who stood by his mother side and was very devoted to her. She was very proud of her son and one of her favorite quotes to him was You're killing me smalls.

Angela leaves to mourn her son Allen Booker, Granddaughter Aaliyah, Sisters Marlene, Sandra, Anita, Rosalind, Gerri (Maurice), Yolanda and Margie who preceded her in death, Brothers Glenn and Rodney, Companion Avon Dockins, Special Friend Tara Craig and a host of aunts, uncles, cousins, nieces, nephews and other relatives.

“ Angie had a smile that would light up a room, some people you had to warm up to, not Angie from the moment you came in contact with her infectious laugh you wanted to smile too. No one could ever call my husband's like Angie... Rev. Williams she would say with a smile. Well, Rest on my friend you will be missed, but forever you will be in my heart.
