November 26, 1932 - April 26, 2004

Annette Jean Hoff was born Annette Jean Williams, daughter of Robena Richardson, on November 26, 1932 in Baltimore, Maryland. She ascended peacefully to heaven on April 26, 2004. Annette attended public schools in Baltimore City, and graduated from Douglass High School. On June 12, 1954, she married her late husband, Nathaniel H. Hoff, Sr. From that union, nine children were born: David Hoff (deceased), Victoria "Vicky" Forbes, Annette M. Hoff, Yvette Hoff-Boschulte, Nathaniel Hoff Jr., Ronald Hoff, Yvonne Bell, Christopher Hoff and Kevin Hoff. After many years as a loving mother and homemaker, she attended college to pursue her dream of completing her bachelor's degree. She graduated from Morgan State University in 1973 with a degree in History/Political Science. She then worked as a Baltimore City Public School teacher and librarian at the Enoch Pratt Library. Annette was a kind and gentle soul, devoted to her family. She loved to laugh and enjoyed gardening, true crime murder mysteries, trips to Dover Downs slots, dolls and any outings with her children and other family members. In addition to her eight children, she leaves to mourn: her mother, Robena Richardson; her sister, Claudette Williams; four grandchildren, Brian Bell, Brandon Bell, Brent Bell and Bradley Boschulte. She also leaves to mourn a sister-in-law, Fernell Perkins; three sons-in-law, James Forbes, Troy Bell and Bernard Boschulte; her beloved niece, Deborah Olup; nephews, Edward "Tony" Lee and Michael Lee; and a host of other relatives and friends.
