

Annie Daisy Collins

November 18, 1937 - January 18, 2011

ANNIE DAISY COLLINS, was born in Chesterfield, South Carolina on November 18, 1937, the stepdaughter of the late Mr. Samuel and Claudia Bell Bridges. She was called to the end of her journey on Monday, January 17, 2011 at the Future Care Village in Baltimore, Maryland. Annie's death was due to a long term illness.

Annie attended public schools in Cheraw, South Carolina. At a young adult age, Annie moved to Baltimore, Maryland where she studied and trained for Medicine Aide. Annie passed the Maryland State Board and worked in the Health Field until she retired. Annie enjoyed working in the medical field and did not want to miss a day from work. She would say, "They need me, the staff is short today, I'll go to help out." Even if it was not her day to work. Annie didn't want to retire, but had to because her health started to fail. Annie was a kindhearted person who was shy and would not ask for help, but was always willing to help others.

Annie leaves to cherish goodhearted memories: two sons, Hudson Collins (his wife, Linda Collins) and Michael Collins; four siblings, Claudia Ann Shannon, Eva Mae Baskins, Eyvonne Bridges-Leak and Arthur James Bridges (brother Samuel Bridges, Jr. preceded her in death); grandchildren, great-grandchildren, nieces, nephews and a host of cousins and friends.
