She lived and attended school in Turners Station in Baltimore, Maryland where she married Floyd Dandridge on April 6, 1957. From this union came three sons-Maurice, from Baltimore, Maryland, Keith, from Savannah, Georgia, and Torrence from Baltimore, Maryland. Annie began studying the Bible with Jehovah's Witnesses in 1980 and later, in 1991, she became baptized. Up until she fell asleep in death on February 10, 2002 at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, she was a faithful member of the North Milton Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses. She leaves to mourn: three sons, Maurice, Keith and Torrence; a sister, Magalean Warren; and aunt, Eve Brown; a daughter-in-law, Cynthia Dandridge; a close and dearest friend, Mona Bates; seven grandchildren, Kenja, Torrence Jr., Imani, Monae, Travon, Davon and Tiesha; plus a host of nieces, nephews, cousins and one special niece, Christine McCormick; and a host of friends and family.
