“ Dad I love you so much and I miss you. I didn't know about this online memory post. I figured I would add my thoughts. You taught me everything I know Dad about the definition of a real man along with how to survive in this crazy world. You loved me no matter what and I strived to make you proud. I will miss all the times we sat and talked and laughed uncontrollably. The way we geeked out that no one else would understand. You taught me so much in life and now I'm teaching some of those things to others. I made you promises that I am keeping and will continue no matter what some may think of me for doing so. Like you said "A mans word is everything." At times I picture you in your seat at church smiling back at me the way you use to. Rest well Da. We shall meet again.

*Your Son

“ When I was a young girl, my dad said to me "I want my children to have a good life more than I had growing up." He did just that. He gave his family all he had to give. He loved us. He was an awesome father. I remember how he worked two full time jobs and a couple side jobs at the same time just so his children would have "a good life." We had so much because of him. He was a father I looked up to. He taught me just about everything and we had many great times together. I miss him so much. I wish he could be here for so many reasons, more good times and just to talk to.

“ Pop Pop,

I am still at a loss for words, not sure where to begin. Life as it seems will never ever be the same without you. I am feeling every type of emotion. I have soooo many great memories with you. Sheer joy filled with laughter. Memories to last a lifetime. Although I'm still trying to make sense of this, I know you are truly in a better place.

*Forever Yours,
Lisa*
