

Beatrice Taylor

December 30, 1922 - January 31, 2011

BEATRICE TAYLOR, daughter of the late Benjamin Brown and Ella Brown, was born on December 30, 1922 in Baltimore, Maryland. God in His Infinite Wisdom, who knows all and never make a mistake, called His child Bernice home to eternal rest on Monday, January 31, 2011 after a lengthy illness.

Beatrice received her education at Frederick Douglass High School in Baltimore, Maryland. Beatrice was a dedicated employee for many years and retired in 1972. At an early age Beatrice accepted Christ as her Lord And Savior at Morning Star Baptist Church under the pastorate of the late Rev.. George J. Garnett.

Bee, as she was fondly known by all who knew and loved her, was a devoted mother to her son, Wilson Worrell, Jr. (Pop-Pop) who preceded her in death, devoted grandmother, great-grandmother, aunt and friend. She loved family gathering, especially birthday parties. All who knew her loved her feisty mannerism. She enjoyed traveling, shopping, movies, and going out to dinner.

She leaves with fond memories: loving friend, James E. Henderson (husband); stepdaughters, Christine Speight, Regina Henderson and Robin Jones; granddaughter, Shirlene Worrell-McCloud, Christina A. Speight, Rona Phillips and Andrea Terry; grandsons, Tyrone Braxton and Wilson Worrell, III; favorite niece, Janis Mims; forty great-grandchildren and sixty-one great-great-grandchildren; a host of nieces, nephews, cousins and friends.

During her lengthy illness she was cared for by many family members, Christina Speight, Robin Jones, Janis Mims, Andrea Terry and loving husband, James Henderson.
