

Bessie Clark

June 15, 1927 - May 23, 2003

Bessie Neal Sherrill Clark, wife of the late Charles Clark, was born on June 15, 1927 in Mt. Holly, North Carolina and departed this life on May 23, 2003 after a long illness. She was the daughter of the late Alfreda Moore Sherrill and James Wallace Sherrill. She had two sisters and one brother, Mary Lee Shannon, Charlene Christmas and Robert Henry Sherrill. Bessie attended and completed Reid High School in Belmont, North Carolina. She attended Shiloh A.M.E. Zion Church where she was very devoted. She left Mt. Holly, North Carolina in the early 1950's and moved to Baltimore, Maryland. She met and married Charles Clark in 1964. They enjoyed a very happy marriage. During this marriage, they became adoptive parents to George Conway, Jr. Johns Hopkins University's school of Medicine employed Bessie for twenty-five years where she retired. Bessie was always full of life and enjoyed life to the fullest. She loved to dance, entertain her closest friends and extended a helping hand to those in need. Bessie will always be remembered for her favorite saying, "Don't You Worry Me" by her family and friends. Bessie will be affectionately remembered as "The Star" by the staff and her friends at the Gambro Healthcare Dialysis Center on East 25th Street. She would not only act the part of a star; she also dressed the part. She leaves to mourn: her two aunts, Russie Haney and Velma Foxx; a devoted son, George Conway Jr.; devoted cousin, Gerald Richardson; niece, Debra Taylor of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; and a host of other relatives and dear friends.
