

Brittany A. Cummings

November 28, 1987 - July 20, 2018

BRITTANY AARONDRIKA CUMMINGS entered this life on November 28, 1987 to Lynn Hayes and Aaron Cummings. She departed this life on July 20, 2018.

Brittany (also known as "Tweety" or "Britt-Britt") received her education in the Baltimore City and Baltimore County Public School Systems. At age 13 she suffered a tragic experience which had her at Mt. Washington Pediatric Hospital until age 21, and in time she overcame what seemed impossible odds.

Brittany graduated from Kennedy Krieger High School while at Mt. Washington Pediatric Hospital. Years later, she completed her education at Empire Beauty School where she began a career in cosmetology. Brittany worked for Social Security Administration for 2 1/2 years until her untimely passing.

In her spare time, Brittany wrote poetry as well as her first yet-to-be-published book titled Scared Girl, Brave Woman. She was unique and had a flair for fashion and makeup. Brittany was most of all remembered for the colorful scarfs and ornate necklaces she wore.

Brittany leaves to mourn and cherish her memory: her parents; two brothers,

Earl Spencer and Leonard Hearn Jr; four sisters, Angela Cummings, Alea Cummings, Aarin Cummings and Amiyah Cummings; sister-in-law, Shantrice Spencer; five uncles, Derrick Hill, Calvin Hayes, Troy Hayes, Anthony Cummings and Sean Murray; five aunts, Renarda Cummings (also godmother), Vanessa Cummings, Chiffon Hayes and Chantel Banks; niece/godsister, Whitney McGraw; two grandmothers, Joyce Hayes and Cynthia Cummings; grandfather, Lawrence Colson; special friend, Dezmin Davis; four nephews and a host of great aunts, cousins, and friends and associates.

“ My heartfelt and sincerest condolences to Ms. Hayes, Brittany's family and friends. I'm truly saddened by Brittany's departure, but was blessed to have known her and watch her tackle her fears... becoming the woman she was. I'm proud to say that I've become her friend and cheerleader along the way. May your family find comfort in knowing that Brittany was a blessing to those she encountered. Love, Ms. Jennell
