

Bruce M.P. Williams

March 21, 1993 - October 2, 2017

BRUCE decided he would make his entrance on March 21, 1993 at 5:42 p.m. The first true day of spring, weighing in at 11 lbs 9 oz. He was the first boy in 20 years born to his mother's side of the family.

The Epperson family are known to have large babies and Bruce was a big baby who they would call, "Big Boy", the same nickname as his grandfather on his mother's side.

He would take his father's name, "Bruce Williams", but his dad gave him his own middle name.

As a young child, he showed an interest in many things including science and math. At the age of 5 he was solving problems and completing in video games. He couldn't wait to go to school because he wanted to follow his sister to where she could go in the daytime.

He seemed to excel in everything. He received many awards for kindness, academics and perfect attendance throughout his school career.

Bruce also loved music and outside of writing and creating his own brand of songs and rap lyrics, he started recording. His plans was to eventually put out his music in the next few months. His ambition was to someday have his own entertainment company where his youngest sister was back to school and excelling at his job at P.M.I.

Bruce was a peacemaker and remained positive from his morning cheer, laughter and to his music. People were touched by him and his presence. He was loved and will be missed by: his great grandmother, Bernice Williams; grandfather, Bruce M. Williams; mother, Helen Epperson; father, Bruce A. Williams A. Williams; sisters, Tamara Williams and Danica; aunts, Renee and Tabitha; uncles, Robert, Rufus, Brain and Josh; godmother; Laysha; and a host of cousins and an extended list of family and friends.
