Obituary

Carl Jones was born on May 31, 1969 in Baltimore, MD to Patricia Jones and Woodrow Harrison. He gained his wings on January 3, 2018 after a brief but hard-fought battle with esophageal cancer.

Carl attended Northwestern High School in Baltimore where he graduated in 1988. At the time of his illness; Carl was working to obtain his Associates Degree in Addictions Counseling from Baltimore City Community College, which although he had only been studying for a short time he excelled in all of his studies. Carl worked diligently and put his best effort into his studies and even in his illness, while he was hospitalized he initiated contact with his professors, maintained excellent academic standing and ended his last semester with an A and B in his classes. Carl was devoted to changing his life for the better and showed that in everything that he did, with his perseverance and strong will. Carl was employed as a cook at The Suburban House for a little over a year and he had just taken a position at the Citron restaurant in Pikesville, cooking was always something that Carl loved to do and was very good at it, he baked and cooked for his family and friends just because it was something that gave him pleasure. Carl was one of the most friendly and considerate people you could have ever met and anyone who knew him would agree that if he was your friend and you needed something he would gladly offer it to you with no hesitation. Carl was loved immensely by his twin sister Carla who he would always make time for no matter what the task and for him she would do the same, they shared a bond, as twins are said to have and theirs was an absolutely special one. Carl and his niece Nikki also shared a bond that began when she was very little and he gave her his very own nickname for her and to this day it never changed. The two bonded even more when Carl went back to school, and he chose to study in the same profession that she worked in, it gave cause for lengthy conversations as the two of them spoke daily about school work, and his future goals. This, although seemingly a simple bond drew the two of them closer than ever. Carl was adored by his family as he was of great character, outstanding potential and an upstanding man who will truly be missed but always remembered.

Carl is survived by his mother, Patricia Jones who he loved dearly and cared for daily, Father Woodrow Harrison, Twin sister Carla Jones, Sister Jennifer Jones, Brother Hewitt Jones, Sister-in law Claudine Waters, nieces Nicole Ham who he affectionately referred to as "Baby" and Jazmin Williams, great Nephew Devaun McLaughlin and great nieces Kaiya and Kynae Jackson. Carl was preceded in death by his grandmother Carrie Milo and brother Michael Jones.
