

Carroll C. Conquest

November 6, 1959 - June 24, 2017

Carroll Christopher Conquest, the son of the late Enoch Conquest and Joan Marie Wright, was born on November 6, 1959. Carroll was often called Chris by close friends and relatives. He was raised in Baltimore, Maryland with his six siblings. A mischievous, yet intelligent child, Chris was always looking to learn new things and to help others. He enjoyed playing sports, but later in life developed a love for golfing. He received his primary education within the Baltimore City Public School System prior to joining the United States Air Force.

As a young man, Chris married his high school sweetheart Sharon and from their union came a daughter, Talesha. While in the Air Force, the young family was stationed in Greece for several years. After leaving the Air Force, Chris continued his education by earning an Associate's degree in Accounting from Strayer University. Chris and Sharon later divorced but remained good friends, parents and grandparents. Chris later met Gretchen, and although the two never married, they lived as one and supported each other unconditionally. Chris worked as a professional for years at several renowned financial institutions prior to his life's journey leading him to his true calling as a part-time Consultant for the National Council on Alcoholism and Drug Dependence and a Contractual Trainer with Maryland's Behavioral Health Administration and Penn-North Community Resource Center. Chris leaves behind a legacy which includes being a Wellness Recovery Action Plan Facilitator, a state Registered Peer Supervisor with the Maryland Addiction and Behavioral-health Professional Certification Board, and the former Director of the Baltimore Recovery Corps. He was a Peer Recovery Coach Subject Matter Expert on the Job Tasks Analysis Committee for the International Certification & Reciprocity Consortium, which developed the credentialing for Maryland's Certified Peer Recovery Specialist certification. Chris later started the Recovery Empowerment Group, Inc., but one of Chris' greatest accomplishments was completing his Bachelor's degree and graduating with Honors from Strayer University.

Chris leaves to mourn: his mother, Joan Wright; daughter, Talesha Conquest; grandchildren, Shinaya Jones and Andrew Tillman; former spouse Sharon Taylor; devoted friend, Gretchen Spell; sisters, Rayner Harris and Medina Wrightbrothers, Robert Knight , Juan Harris, Edmond Harris, and Timothy L. Wright; and a host of relatives and friends.

“ Mr. Conquest was a pillow of resources and a man of wisdom and intelligence. He had a smile that brighten a room. I was being educated in peer advocacy through Mr. Conquest, he would often say you're already doing the work. Great inspiration and encourager.

at gets easier I would often tell Mr. Conquest he had the gift of Ministry on his life. I saw him as a man of mission and vision. I pray healing, comfort , strength and peace as the family continues to go through this tragic loss. Earth has no sorrow Heaven cannot heal, Let not your hearts be troubled know that, God has His hands on you and He is the Great I AM.

You have my deepest sympathy and condolences and I'm praying with you and for you , as you go through this process, that only gets easier. He will always be in your hearts, keep those memories they are to cherish. We are all on loan to one another from the Lord.

*MaRia Garrison, (childhood to adulthood friend)
I Thank GOD for having known you... where do I begin Precious Memories that linger on, there are so many when remembering you, that come to mind...Oh, but your Smile Chris, told the story, expressing what words could never say. You were my brother, my friend...The life you lived and the work you've done, speaks volumes to your character while painting a picture of the Man, we all knew and loved. As we are all here on Assignments, just passing thorough this life to everlasting life...Chris you touched so many lives on your journey. You made a Difference.
"REST IN PEACE MY DEAR FRIEND."*
