“ There will come a day when your tears of sorrow will softly flow into tears of remembrance... and your heart will begin to heal itself... and grieving will be interrupted by episodes of joy... and you will hear the whisper of hope. There will come a day when you will welcome the tears of remembrance... as a sunshower of the soul... a turning of the tide... a promise of peace. There will come a day when you will... risk loving... go on believing... and treasure the tears of remembering##imported-begin##Sharon Hopkins##imported-end##

“ Dear family, please accept my sincere sympathy. Time, they say, is a great healer. I know the pain is so deep in your hearts, but as time goes on; though the pain never completely leaves you, it will become a little easier to bear. One day we won't have to worry about losing our loved ones in death, because God has promised to end sickness and death forever. 1st Cor 15,26 says: "As the last enemy, death will be brought to nothing. Won't that be something wonderful to look forward to? Your Charlie will one day come to life again when he hears Jesus's voice calling him from the memorial tombs to a resurrection of life. John 5:26-29 May those wonderful thoughts from the bible bring you a measure of comfort, as well as your cherished memories of Charlie.##imported-begin##R Johnson##imported-end##
