Whether it was working in a nursing home or volunteering at a school, she did just that. Despite not graduating from high school, she still had an education that a school couldn't offer. She pursued helping and learning from people she helped and the things she did to help. Within her life, she worked within periods of her life in nursing homes, volunteered and worked in the Baltimore City Public School System and helped fund the Feed the Children and Children's International. She leaves the legacy of helping and nurturing unconditionally, unselfishly, and unwantingly. She now continues the work she did here on earth with God. Note: To avoid exclusion, no family names have been mentioned. You know who you are and existence speaks for itself. The stroke of a pen is meaningless.
