

Cornelius J. Riddic

March 2, 1953 - November 9, 2015

CORNELIUS J. RIDDIC, first son of the late Clarence J. and Emily Riddic, was born on March 2, 1953 in Baltimore, Maryland. He departed this life on November 9, 2015.

He received his education in Edmondson High School in Baltimore, Maryland where he forged many lifelong relationships. In his early years after high school “Neil”, as he was affectionately known, began to realize his love for cooking and creating mouthwatering dishes. After obtaining employment at the Federal Reserve Bank in Baltimore, Maryland where he worked for well over fifteen years destroying money, Neil would always find time to prepare holiday dinners for his family, or single handedly orchestrate dinners for the community and neighboring businesses. To keep himself around food at all times, Neil also volunteered at Concord Baptist Church in the food bank, where he sorted, organized and distributed food for the community.

If you knew Neil you knew he would always say what he meant even if it wasn't what you wanted to hear, but needed to be said.

If you knew Neil you know he will truly be missed by his family and the community.

If you knew Neil, and if food was involved, he would always lend a helping hand.

Preceding him in death is his father, Clarence J. Riddic and one brother, Jerry E. Riddic.

Neil leaves to mourn: his mother, Emily Riddic; aunt, Mary White; four siblings, Gwen, Stanley, Rosalee and Clarence; two sisters-in-law, Joyce Riddic and Carleta Riddic; and a host of neices, nephews, other relatives and friends.
