

Derrick J. Valentine

October 17, 1971 - September 17, 2001

On October 17, 1971, Derrick Jarrod Valentine was born to the late John L. Valentine and Yvonne L. Andrews Stewart. He suddenly departed this life on Monday night September 17, 2001. Derrick graduated from Dunbar Senior High School. He received an Emergency Medical Technician degree for Paramedics from the Community College of Baltimore located in Baltimore City. At an early age he began his religious pilgrimage at Pentecost Baptist Church under the pastorage of the late Rev. Charles Fletcher, Sr. He was a strong prayer warrior with his family on special occasions. Derrick was employed in construction, and was employed for several years by Baltimore City Fire Department. He also worked for Buddy's Bail Bondsmen Service. Derrick was a faithful and devoted son and father. He made many friends wherever he went. He was a strong father figure for his son Taj; and was looking forward to the birth of his son, which he named Tykeem. He was a very generous and unselfish person in his giving. He took great pride in his home and his personal appearance. He had a quiet spirit and he was a gentleman with his style and grace. Freeze an D'Nice, as he was fondly known, enjoyed traveling, shopping, boxing and other sporting events. He shared a very special relationship with his younger brother, Devon. He took great pains to teach Devon how to drive, how to play basketball, and he supported him in all of his extra curricular activities. All those that he came in contact will sorely miss him. He leaves to cherish his memory: his mother; Yvonne Stewart, step-father; Warren Stewart, one brother; Devon Valentine, a devoted companion April Stills, one son; Taj Valentine, and unborn son; Tykeem Valentine, grandmother; Hannah Williams, godson; Raquan Townes, two god sisters, eight aunts, seven uncles and a host of relatives and friends.
