

Derrick L. Johnson

June 29, 1963 - September 12, 2002

Derrick Lamont Johnson, was born to Harry Lee Price and Elaine Johnson on June 29, 1963 (the older of two children). He died on September 12, 2002 at Union Memorial Hospital. Having grown up in Baltimore, Derrick was a city slickster. Derrick was a very outgoing kind of guy who enjoyed making people laugh. He was always the center of attraction. Whoever knew him enjoyed his company. He would cheer you up when you were down. He would bring you down when you were up too high. Mingling and telling jokes was his style. He graduated from Towson High School. At the age of twenty-four he enrolled in the Baltimore School of Culinary Arts. As a member of the N.A. and A.A. fellowships, he was a true soldier. Derrick leaves to mourn; his mother, Elaine Johnson; grandmother, Rebecca Johnson; sister, Catherine Johnson; two aunts, Jacqueline Campbell and Joan Lyles; one uncle, Lonnie Campbell; two cousins, Steven Colbert and Neemah Thomas; four nieces, Shardae, Jacqueline, Whitney and Erica; one nephew, Derrick; devoted friends, Gregory Pendleton, Reginald Hope, Willie Mae Gamble, Mildred Abel, Patricia Harris, Clarice Gardner, Mary Pettis, Paulette Brown, Paula Blackwell and Kathryn Johnson; a host of other relatives and friends.
