

Diontavis W. Whitfield

November 20, 2001 - February 23, 2025

DIONTAVIS WALLACE WHITFIELD was born on November 20, 2001 in Baltimore, Maryland, to Wallace Whitfield Jr. and Darkita Johnson. He unexpectedly departed this life on Sunday, February 23, 2025.

“Squirt”, as we lovingly called him, was the third of five siblings. He was educated in the Baltimore City Public School System. In 2013, he was baptized at the American Rescue Workers Community Church. He played football until he was a teenager. Squirt loved to help out in any capacity he could. In 2023, he worked for Chesapeake Trash Co., and in 2024, he briefly worked for Greenwood Valley Pallet Co.

Squirt was always on the go — he was a busybody who couldn’t sit still. He was outgoing, loving, and had the most joyful spirit. From a young age, he was known for his jokes and always had something to say. He was the life of the party and cherished family time as much as he loved being outdoors. He was always hugging, smiling, and dancing through the house. To know him was to love him. Squirt, as we all know him, could take over a room without even trying. While he was a man in many ways, he remained a big kid at heart, always carrying a snack bag full of goodies.

Squirt was preceded in death by his grandparents, Faith Ireland-Nettles, Mary Heck, Wallace Whitfield Sr., Nathaniel Johnson Sr., and Dean Nettles; his uncles, Anthony Heck, Robert and Christopher Whitfield; and his brother, Ife.

He leaves to cherish his legacy: his mother, Darkita Johnson; father, Wallace Whitfield Jr.; daughter, Damirah Whitfield; siblings, Wallace Whitfield III, Michael Carroll, Mykell Carroll, Jaylyn Whitfield, Kirsten Harold, Johnathan and Ian; nieces and nephew, Arya, Ava, and Wallace IV; aunts, Mary Houston, Natasha Johnson and Christina Carroll; uncles, Dwayne Carroll, Gregory Whitfield, Nathaniel Johnson, Jermaine Houston and Lawrence Stafford; his favorite cousins, Jeremiah Houston and Breyante Smith; close friend, De'jah Green (Fat Baby); best friend, Da'Mon Briggs; and a host of cousins, great-aunts and -uncles, other relatives and friends.
