“ Please accept my deepest sympathies. May you find comfort in the Holy Scriptures, your family and friends. May your hearts soon be filled with wonderful memories of joyful times together as you celebrate life well lived.

I can understand how you feel, grief can affect us in various ways, but for many the overriding feeling is one of intense emotional pain. The good news is that recovery is possible. It will take some time but the comfort from the Holy Bible can help you to endure. Just as a severe physical wound takes time to heal, so it is with bereavement. Recovering from grief may take months, a few years, or even longer. Just remember the acute pain you feel in the beginning will lessen in time and life will gradually seem less bleak and meaningless. There is an empty space where before there was a living human. Cry as long as you need to, repressing your grief can be harmful mentally, emotionally, and physically. Like a suffocating envelopment - a blanket - death can weigh heavily on mankind. God assures us that death will be swallowed up or removed from the earth. Because of the resurrection hope, Martha could say to Jesus concerning her dead brother Lazarus, "...I know he will rise in the resurrection on the last day." Jesus said in John 11:25 "I am the resurrection and the life.

The Holy Bible contains many example of faithful men and woman who openly expressed their grief by weeping. Jesus Christ "gave way to tears" when he neared the tomb of his dear friend Lazarus, who had recently died. (John 11:33, 35) God word assures us at Psalms 55:22 "Throw your burden on Jehovah, and he will sustain you. Never will he allow the righteous one to fall." 2Thessalonians 2:17 "comfort your hearts and make you firm in every good deed and word."

One thing that can help you cope with your grief is to draw close to God and the resurrection hope. (James 4:8 first part) May Jehovah God give the family comfort and peace.

“ we wish to extend our condolences on the recent loss of your dear loved one. We know that death leaves a void, but the Bible offers hope that one day death will be no more. Revelations 21:4 says, "death will be no more, neither will mourning nor outcry nor pain will be anymore, the former things will have passed away".
