

Fannie Mae Cole

July 12, 1921 - June 2, 2003

Fannie Mae Cole, daughter of Gertrude and Joe Dixon, was born on June 12, 1921 in Thomasville, Alabama. She departed this life on June 2, 2003 after a lengthy illness. Mother made numerous friends in her life. She was especially known as Evangelist Sister Cole, who ministered and prayed for people too numerous to mention. Her favorite saying was "Give me my flowers while I'm still alive." All who knew her did just that. Mother was a lifetime member of Highway To Heaven Church, a member of Apostolic Faith, a mother of both churches and to other families and friends. Fannie's major job career was in private duty nursing. She worked for over thirty-five years in the nursing field as a private duty nurse. Her hobbies included needlepoint and crocheting. Her favorite pastime was reading the scriptures and her favorite chapter was John 13:12. Her eye for pattern particularly enhanced her needlepoint. She was educated in the public schools of Thomasville. She moved to Baltimore, Maryland in 1958, studied at an adult education program and received her certificate of graduation in 1969. She worked at Mercy Hospital for several years and at Johns Hopkins a few years as a Registered Nurse. She is survived by nine children, (one deceased), Earlie, Frank, Rosie, Barbara, Edwina, Fannie Marie, Pernie, Geraldine and Angela; a host of grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and a loving longtime brother-in-the-Lord, Washington Frazier.
