

Frank Parker

February 22, 1932 - August 23, 2025

FRANK PARKER JR. was born on February 22, 1932 to two loving parents. Though Frank was named after his father Frank Parker Sr., friends and family loving knew Frank as “Sonny. ”

Frank attended Baltimore City Public Schools and like so many young men of that time, took a job at Bethlehem Steel, Sparrows Point as a steelworker and a forklift driver, from which he retired after 37 years in 1983. Frank enjoyed retirement to the fullest often traveling and attending meetings at the local Elk’s Club where he was a member.

Frank loved to read, never missing a day of reading the Baltimore Sun paper from front to back. Frank was an excellent cook and loved being surrounded by family and friends around the holidays. Retirement suited Frank well.

Frank was a true lover of all types of music. And as the story was told, he could be heard singing a soulful R&B ballad, a soul -stirring hymn, or a country music diddy as he turned the corner onto the block on which he lived, earning him the nickname “The Black Frank Sinatra”.

Frank was loved wholeheartedly and will be missed by: his three daughters, Darmaris Clark, Helena Parker-Manuel and Wendy Parker; son, Frank Stancil; and a host of grandchildren and great -grandchildren.

Frank never failed to show love. He was loved and will be deeply missed by all who knew and loved him
