

Heawatha Flanagan

August 9, 1931 - January 6, 2003

Heawatha Flanagan, son of the late Tom and Mittie Flanagan, was born on August 9, 1931 in Dudley, North Carolina. After a lengthy illness, he departed this life on Monday, January 6, 2003. He received his education in Goldsboro, North Carolina and later relocated to Baltimore, Maryland in 1957. He was employed as a construction worker until becoming ill in 1975. Heawatha recovered from that illness and was able to be employed by Tibs as a laborer from 1985 through 1994. He became stricken with an illness in 1994 that disabled him from returning to work. During his early years, Heawatha loved singing and his favorite song was "For Your Precious Love." He enjoyed spending time with his loving wife Geraldine. The two were inseparable for the last forty-six years and she was at his bedside when he departed this life. The two of them enjoyed their weekend ritual of meeting with his late brother, Thomas Jefferson Flanagan and his wife, Geraldine Flanagan. They enjoyed playing cards and reminiscing about old times. Whenever they left from Thomas and Geraldine's home, you could always find two or three of their children trudging along for the weekend. He leaves to cherish his memory: his devoted wife, Geraldine Flanagan; five children from a previous marriage, Alvin Flanagan, Vernell Butler, Tony Flanagan, Donnell Flanagan and Nelson Flanagan; two brothers, John Walter and Earl Flanagan; four sisters-in-law, Geraldine Flanagan of Baltimore, Sheila Bizzell, Annette Jordan both of North Carolina and Angie Jordan of Georgia; two brothers-in-law, Edward Jordan of Georgia and Marshall Bizzell of North Carolina; two devoted nieces, Blossie

Neal and Erica Flanagan; four daughters-in-law, Gloria Flanagan, Chaundra Flanagan, Nancy Flanagan and Tammy Flanagan; ten grandchildren, Alvin, Nicole, Landon, Donnell, Stacey, Grace, Nelson Flanagan, Cory, Derrick and Eric Fullbright; two great grandchildren, Deja Marie and Tamara Flanagan; and a host of nieces, nephews, relatives and friends
