

Henry Carol Lewter

June 30, 1937 - November 29, 2013

Henry C. Lewter was born on June 30, 1937 in Ahoskie, North Carolina, to the late Pauline Cherry Lewter and Charlie H. Lewter. He was the sixth of ten children (five deceased sisters and four deceased brothers). He attended school in Ahoskie, North Carolina and finished his education in New York City. Henry C. Lewter departed this life on November 29, 2013 at Memorial Regional Medical Center in Mechanicsville, Virginia.

While living in New York City he worked at a textile company as a Senior Machine Mechanic. Henry learned many trades in New York City where he was considered a man of many skills. In New York he met and fell in love with Gwendolyn R. Caudle, where they raised five loving sons. Henry lived a spiritual life every day. After leaving New York City he moved to Richmond, Virginia, where he was employed by America Tobacco Company as a First Hand Machine Inspector. Henry was the backbone and rock of his family and friends where everyone knew they could depend on him.

He leaves to cherish his memory and to celebrate his legacy his five sons; Samuel, Timothy, Peter, Eric and Aaron, 15 grandchildren, 5 great-grandchildren, nieces, nephews and a host of other relatives and friends.

“ I worked with Henry at that textile mill in Farmingdale, it was Bitex Corp. He was a hard working decent man who was always speaking lovingly of his wife and children. He was a good man with a sense of right and wrong and showed respect to everyone. God give him peace in heaven.
