

James Linwood Brand, Jr.

January 26, 1958 - June 20, 2010

James L. Brand, Jr. affectionately nicknamed "Boo-Boo" as a tottler was born, January 26, 1958 to James (Bubba) and Isabelle Brand.

He was reared with five siblings in the Richmond area. He attended Richmond City schools and graduated from John Marshall High School.

"Boo-Boo" served in the United States Army and when he completed his commitment, returned home to work, first with Philip Morris, Inc. and then Manor Care, where he was known to be a diligent worker.

His love of family and others showed in his caring and giving and was evidenced in the very social personality he had.

From organizing the annual Thanksgiving Turkey Bowl game to cookouts with friends and family, "Boo-Boo" was adept at getting people together and making them laugh.

He was an avid Baltimore Raven fan, but loved and watched all sports. His hobbies included reading, music, dancing and dressing to impress.

His illness took him away much too soon for those who loved him!

He leaves to cherish his memory;a son,Jovon Square,his mother,Isabelle Brand;father,James L. Brand,Sr.three sisters,Karen B. Johnson(Mac);Patricia B. Jones,Kimlin Brand-Greene(Bernard);two brothers,David A. Brand and Darryl W.
