

Jayshawn Smith

August 28, 2007 - February 26, 2008

Jay-Shawn Smith was born to two loving parents, Keyonta Watch and Jon Brian Hodgson-Smith. Although he did not know this life with us long, he was and always will be loved enough for a lifetime. The hope and promise we saw in his eyes is what carried us through this time. The smile we won't see again will lift our hearts in memories. Though we are sad for our loss, we also rejoice. We know that God doesn't make a mistake. Somewhere someone needed an angel and God knew Jay-Shawn would be perfect. Jay-Shawn leaves to mourn; his grandmother, Nichole Brown, his uncles, Kendrick Watch and Thomas Jones, Jr., his aunt, Tiyonna Jones, great-grandmother, Lillie Brown, six great-aunts, Victoria Brown, Renee James, Cecelia Brown, Kim Brown, Gina Brown and Lillian Brown; three great-uncles, Michael Brown, Carlos Brown and Matthew Brown, his godmother, Christina Wright, his paternal grandparents, Harriet Smith and Jon Hodgson; his great-grandmothers, Letitia Smith and Mary Hodgson, many loving aunts and cousins and a host of other relatives and friends.

“ May you dear ones be comforted by the hope of the ressurection. while on earth, Jesus raised many of the dead back to life. One in particular that was so comforting is brought out at Mark 5:38-43 where a 12-year old little girl was brought back to life. The scriptures say that her parents were beside themselves with great ecstasy at seeing their little girl alive again. These were eyewitness accounts which really happened, and as king of Jehovah"s kingdom, Jesus will bring many more little children and adults back to life. It"s so sad when a child dies, because they didn"t have a chance to really experience what life is all about. Well when they recieve everlasiting life they will find the reall life; the peaceful and happy life that Jehovah promises. Then the Lord"s prayer will be fulfilled, because his will will be done on earth, Just as it is in heaven. May you have peace until that glorious day of salvation comes to pass.##imported-begin##R Johnson##imported-end##
