“ It's been very difficult to write anything to the family. This death caught me completely off guard. As teenagers, we shared a friendship and beyond that was second to none. You confided in me and I in you. We had mirror circumstances in our lives and we treasured the friendship we had. We worked for the same employer and had similar aspirations. As a friend, you always had positive encouragements and directed me in positive directions. Your smile and laugh I will never forget. You were always a cheerful part of my life. In later years and after you became ill, It was seldom that I was in your presence but, every now and then, you would hear from me in unexpected ways. My heart never left you and I carry your spirit with me. I loved you when you were living and I love you still. I will definitely miss you. I know that I will see you again as the old folk say, in the bye and bye. God never fails and he cannot lie so I know it will be so. God please accept my friend as another angel that have entered your kingdom. You are her hero so take care of her like the daughter you love who was gone for a while but have returned. Make her bed sweet. as she lays at your feet. God bless you Jeanine and may heaven rejoice because you have arrived. Your loving friend forever. Viola Byrd (Poosum)

“ Though you are no longer here, you will forever live in the memories of all whom encountered you. You brought joy to all whom had the pleasure to have known you. You made them feel welcomed whenever they were in your presents. We all have gained an angel to continue to watch and guide us. Fly high for you suffer no more friend.
