“ I'm sitting here and I still can't believe one of my favorite people in life is gone. Uncle "Heyward" you will be truly missed. This is for you.....

"A Poem For My Uncle"

*Hey Uncle John, I've heard that you've moved
I thought I'd just check to see if it's true.
I called on last Monday and no one was there,
I knew at that moment, my heart could'nt bear.
I've been wanting to come see you, for oh so long,
Now it hurts me so much, that you have gone on.
I try to sit and smile and remember good days,
Like on all those Saturday mornings when you'd be around our way.
I was a kid eating cereal, with the television on,
At noon, just like clock work, out front on that horn.
I'd open the door and see you lean with that smile,
You'd say, "Hey Tawney Yanwney, yo mama in the house?"
I'd smile, tell you yes, and watch you park your ride,
Hold the door, shake ya hand, get a hug and go inside.
Visits weren't all day, just maybe an hour or two,
When Uncle Heyward came by, he just did what he do.
Speaking of which, you made us all laugh and shout,
Remember old family parties, when he'd turn the dance floor out.
It seems like yesterday, but how the tens of years have past,
Its memories like that Uncle John, you've given to us to last.
Every time you'd go, there's always one thing that you would do
Tip your cap, smile and then you'd say "Your Uncle Loves You",
I want to tell you thanks, a wonderful Uncle you have been,
I love you for being you.....take care.....until we meet again.*

*I love you and I'll never forget you. R.I.P
