December 11, 1933 - October 1, 2020

Johnnie Mae Beverly, daughter of the late Gus Price and Johnnie Price, was born on December 11, 1933, in Greenwood, South Carolina. As a young girl, she relocated to Baltimore, MD, where she was educated in the Baltimore City Public School System.

She was also affectionately called, Moe, Grandma, Granny, Ma-Ma, and Auntie by family. Johnnie Mae worked for London Fog Coat factory for 30+ years and she retired in 1995 from London Fog. She was known to be fearless and outspoken. If you didn't want to know the truth, don't ask Johnnie Mae. She was the life of the party, always stylish, generous, and she loved her family dearly. She could light up a room with her infectious smile. Her motto was, "If you don't have nothing to say, don't say nothing at all."

Johnnie Mae loved her fashion, music, and her image was everything to her. She would always say, "I gotta put my face and hair on!" Yes, she was feisty and she did not play! She had a big heart and loved her family! Johnnie Mae was a blessing to many. She loved to cook and would feed anyone who came through her door. Everyone loved her fried chicken and potato salad.

Johnnie Mae was preceded in death by the love of her life (Husband) of 38 years, Earl Beverly Sr., two sons, William Price and Earl Beverly Jr. (Ceceila) and many of her siblings, including Otis Price, Willie "Charles" Price

(Ernestine), and Edward Price ("Biddy").
