

Katherine Hepburn

December 25, 1925 - May 23, 2018

Katherine Macklin Hepburn, a longtime resident of Miami, Florida was born on December 25, 1925 in Scotland Neck, North Carolina to the blessed union of the late Arlena Wright and the late Ernest Macklin. She was the second oldest of 6 children. She was called home peacefully on May 23, 2018.

Katherine graduated from Brawley High School where she excelled academically and then moved on to North Carolina College at Durham (now North Carolina Central University), where she majored in History and was a member of the school choir.

Upon graduation in 1949, Katherine entered the field of education and eventually settled in the state of Florida as a professional librarian. Katherine set the standard as an educator for over 4 decades, finishing her career as Head Librarian at Northwestern High School in Miami, Florida.

Katherine loved to travel and was an active "cruiser." She truly enjoyed being aboard ship and sailing to many destinations around the world. She also loved spending time with her good friends in Miami and although she didn't have any children of her own, she loved to spend time with her many nieces and nephews along with other family members.

She was preceded in death by her beloved sisters, Ernestine Macklin Pruden and Cora Lane Macklin James, along with her beloved brother, Herbert Lee Macklin.

Katherine will be sincerely missed by her sister, Annie E. White and her brother, Booker T. Macklin along with a host of nieces and nephews. Of special note, her nephew, Clarence White's, devoted care sustained Katherine for the last years of her life until she was called home.
