“ I can still remember as they were whicking you off to get your pre-sugery exam and they held your 25in. long self and said" Miss Smith here's your baby boy...I smiled and waived goodbye to you not know it would be one of the last times I would see you alive...I just remember those big blue eyes and that head full of hair....You remind so much of your dad and Uncles Herman & Eugene so much. I know they loved you so much especially your dad Although we are not together we still share the same love for our first born and we both have beautiful sisters for you...they look just like you Kayla looks like you in the blue blanket picture and Kamiele looks like you in the white. You also have cousins Kenneth, Isaih and Kentrell who I know you would have loved. Always on mommy's mind and I can't go a day without thinking of you...See you soon son...Love Mommy

“ May you recieve much comfort in your time of bereavement. Know that one day through the promises ressurection, our dead ones will come to life again. Acts 24:15 lets us know that there is going to be a ressurection of the righteous and the unrighteous. May that thought bring you joy and give you the strength to face the days to come.##imported-begin##R Johnson##imported-end##

“ Please accept my deepest condolences for the loss your precious young one. John 5:28,29 lovingly reveals: "Do not marvel at this, because the hour is coming in which all those in the memorial tombs will hear his voice and come out." May you experience much comfort hope every time you think about this wonderful resurrection promise found in the Bible.(Romans 15:4)##imported-begin##Sharon Hill##imported-end##
