

Lehman "Leebo" Wilson

August 3, 1953 - October 9, 2017

Philadelphia native, LEHMAN "LEEBO" WILSON, a longtime resident of Baltimore, Maryland's west side area, departed this life early Monday morning the 9th of October 2017 at Gilchrist Hospice Care Center of Towson, Maryland shortly after being diagnosed with terminal illness. He was born in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania on August 8, 1953.

Leebo received his education at Benjamin Franklin High School in Philadelphia, Pa. where he lived with his grandmother Eloise Wilson and his sister Annie Wilson. He was a well accomplished boy scout and a member of the Salvation Army. After high school, he worked as a skilled laborer who installed stained glass windows primarily inside of churches. He later became a Teacher's Aide at Ellwood Elementary school where he influenced and encouraged the lives of many children. In 1982 he moved to East Orange, New Jersey where he joined his aunt, Odessa Harris, and his cousin, Terry Harris, at their family owned business O and H Tires. He moved to Baltimore, Maryland in 1985 where he began working with his brother Reggie Flowers as a painter.

To all that had the pleasure of meeting Lehman "Leebo" Wilson, you can honestly say that he loved to have a good time. Often giving those who spend time with him nicknames, he was genuinely a good guy. His hobbies included watching sports on television like boxing, football and basketball. He occasionally played pool and although he didn't drive, he wouldn't mind traveling to visit family and friends. He lived alone and was traveling to visit family and friends. He lived alone and was extremely independent. He enjoyed entertaining company as a host; also, his laughter and quick answer to question will definitely be missed. He had a way of making people smile like no other. He was admitted and loved by many. Rest in peace Leebo! We love you.

Our dearly departed Lehman "Leebo" Wilson leaves to mourn: his sisters, Annie A. Wilson, Robin Beal, Ann Lennon, and Barbara Whitenere. One brother, Reggie Flowers and a host of nieces, nephews, and cousins.
