

Lena Bacon

January 8, 1917 - October 15, 2010

Lena Pearl, the daughter of the late Edward and Alice Adams, was born on January 8, 1917 in Greenwood, South Carolina. On October 15, 2010 God called her home.

She received her education in Greenwood, South Carolina. She later moved to Philadelphia where she met and married the late Cleauther Wardlow. From this union she was blessed with three lovely Children, Robert, Clare and John who preceded her in death. Later Lena married the late Lewis Bacon.

She was employed by Johns Hopkins University for thirty years until she retired.

Lena enjoyed poetry, especially the poem "In The Morning" by Paul Lawrence Dunbar.

She was a resident at the Genesis Homewood Center for several years.

Her sister Mamie Goodman, Edie Parker and her granddaughter Theresa Carr preceded her in death.

She leaves to cherish her memory: one loving son Robert and wife Elnora; one loving daughter Clara; one daughters-in-law Mary Wardlow; four grandchildren Debra Carr, TiWanda Moore, Dante Wardlow; eight great-grandchildren; three great great-grandchildren; one nephew, Fred Goodman and wife Joyce, one sister Rhunette Howard and a host of other relatives and friends.
