To The Family of Lena Virginia Reid:

I just wanted to share a few words of encouragement that can help you to continue to build your hopes, trust and faith in our Creator. This is so important because if we clearly understand Jehovah God's purpose for human life than we can appreciate the knowledge He too is sadden when our love one falls victim to death due to sickness, aging or even acts of violence etc. That is why he made provisions through the ransom sacrifice of Christ that we may live again on earth. Yes Jehovah God promised death will be no more and the things that cause pain and suffering will be no more as well. (Rev 21:4) He has even promised that there will come a time when no one will say they are sick. (Is 33:24). These are some of the blessings He has promised in our near future; as for those who we have loss to death Jesus has been given the authority to resurrect these one. (John 5:28-29) Yes, Dan 12:2 states those who are asleep in the ground of dust will wake up to indefinitely lasting life. Lena will be apart of (that wonderful blessing and because of this fact that is why her condition is temporary. She is in Jehovah God's memory awaiting the time to be among family and friends once again. This isn't a fairytale it is God's word of truth that is true. (John 17:17) Jehovah's word will not return without results. (Is 55:11) and one fact that is always good to know, it is impossible for God to lie. (Heb 6:18) So take heart in knowing death doesn't always mean a permanent end to life, not if we continue to put our full faith and trust in the One who has the power to give life. So I hope you can draw comfort in these words and continue to know Jehovah truly cares. May Jehovah embrace you with His love and kindness and bring the comfort and peace to you at this time of need.
