

Letitia S. Harris

September 18, 1962 - January 21, 2026

Letitia Sharron Harris, affectionately known as "Tish," was born on September 18, 1962, in Baltimore Maryland, to Lena Watson and Phillip Bryant. She departed this life on February 21, 2026, of natural causes.

Tish attended Walbrook High School, graduating in 1980. The same year, she welcomed her firstborn daughter, Takeya Laquan Little, beginning the journey of motherhood, one of her proudest roles.

Tish was known as everybody's favorite butt-blunt bartender. She could pour a strong drink and deliver a feisty word or two, all while making you laugh and feel genuinely loved. She worked at Duck's Bar and later at The Hideaway, places where many came to know her vibrant personality. Though those were two of the spots most remembered, Tish worked various jobs throughout her life, always doing what she had to do.

She loved a good time, playing cards, dancing, and enjoying life, but more than anything, she loved caring for the people close to her heart.

In 1985, Tish met her life companion, her ride-or-die, the love of her life, James Mills. Through this union came two daughters, Talisa and Tesha Mills. Together, they built a life rooted in loyalty love and resilience.

Tish was preceded in death by her biological father, Phillip Bryant; her stepfather, Phillip Harris; her oldest sister, Tawanda Harriss; and her sister, Tamora Harris.

She leaves to cherish her memory her mother, Lena Harris; two sisters, Tara Costley and Tanisha Harris; one brother, Dominic Harris (wife Elizabeth); three daughters, Takeya Mills, and Tesha Mills; ten grandchildren, TyZhon Epps, Ca'Ren Epps, Tayvon Myers, Ty'Leah Muhammad, Javion Jones, Kysin Fisher, Kyair Mills, Deion Wilkinson, Leo Dunifer III, and Ja'Nell Carroll; her sister-cousin, Tonya Ingram; the son she was not able to birth but loved as her own, Carlos Epps; along with a host of nieces, nephews, extended family and friends.

Tish's bold spirit, sharp wit, generous heart, and unforgettable presence will live on in every story told, every laugh shared, and every glass raised in her honor.
