

Lolita Solorzano

February 22, 1963 - November 11, 2011

LOLITA SOLORZANO, was born at Provident Hospital in Baltimore, MD. On February 22, 1963 to Addie Mae Edwards and the late Simon Solorzano. She was the youngest of 5 children.

She attended from Southern High School in 1981. After graduating from Southern, she furthered her education at BCCC for Paralegal Studies. Soon after, she worked at the Census Bureau in 1988. Lolita soon left the Bureau and went to work at Carefirst Blue Cross Blue Shield of Maryland where she spent more than 20 years working. She recently relocated to Carefirst located in DC before her departure. To those who knew Lolita said that she was a sweet, beautiful person. She was always there for someone when they needed her and she loved to laugh. She had a beautiful spirit and always believed in seeing the positive outcome in every situation. Whenever she wasn't devoting her time to her children, she liked to go out with friends, dancing and playing cards. She was very loveable person, everyone enjoyed being around her.

On November 11, 2011, God decided to call Lolita home. She leaves to cherish her memory: her mother: Addie Mae Edward; two daughters: Shania Brown and Tyleeshia Mayo; one son: Malek Mayo; two sisters: Rosita Edwards and Anna Allen; one brother: Frederico Solorzano and two aunts: Ruby Suggs and Leila Harrison. She is also cherished by a host of extended family members and friends.

“ Dear Ma,

I miss you so much I wish it was me instead. You was always there for me as I was for you. I have a empty space in my heart that no one can fill, but you. I need you, Ma. Why you had to leave Ma? Our bond was so strong. I don't know how to handle this. This is going on three years later and the pain is still there. When I was younger, I promised you a house in Miami and I will get you that house! You was going to live with me, remember that Ma? I will never forget. I won't forget the things you scarf iced for me. Those long nights working and still having enough energy to feed us. Those long talks we had. I remember the last one, especially. I remember when you told me about how important family is and how we must stick together. I wish Tai and Shania would have heard it. I know you and Dad haven't got along, but for you to tell me to always keep that bond strong and try to be understanding of him shows your love and forgiveness that I maintained. That's not going so well, as their egos won't allow them to ever bond. I don't think they ever will. I tried my best, and that's what you always taught me. I've learned that my best has no limits. My best is a relentless effort to succeed. We have countless memories because I was always around you, being the big Mama's boy that I am. I guess the best memory is when you use to say, "That's my boy!" I wish I could have recorded it. I wish I could hear your voice again. It's funny; after seventeen years of hearing your voice, I forgot how it sound. I forgot how you smell because you had a certain smell that I can track miles away. I guess, that's because of our chemistry. I wrote this because I was having trouble with an emotional part of a scene. Oh yeah Mama, I'm an actor now. You ever see that coming? It came from you, when I had to entertain you to get your mind off of things; keep you laughing to keep you from crying. Understand that most of the things I do originate from you. I hate to say that because I like to give Dad his credit for the wonderful things he did for me too. I don't know how to end this. Maybe because it's 5 AM on a school night and eyes are getting lower by each word I type. I know you taught me better, but I couldn't sleep tonight. You taught me to never say Goodbye to someone near the time of your sickness. Was it irony or was you mentally preparing us for this? You taught us to say "See you later," so that's what I'm going to say. I guess I'll lay my head down and hope I wake up the next day. It might sound crazy, but if I don't, it'll be okay. At least I get to be with my mother again. I love you, k?

“ Lolita, I thank you for always being my friend. You were there for me when others turned their backs on me. My dear little sister as i have referred to you, you have your reward now in heaven. I know you are there for certain. I thank you so much for allowing me to pray the prayer of "SALVATION" with you. I am a witness that you accepted JESUS as your Lord and personal savior so there is no doubt as to where you are this day. Love always, Sandra McCoy

“ Lolita, I think about all the good times that we had when we were teenagers.I cry and then I laugh.Life is so unpredictable,never in my mind I would have thought that you would leave me so sudden. Sister you were always there for other people and we love you for that and now God has called on you for greater things. We love you and will miss you dearly, say hello to moma.

“ I'm so sorry for your loss and would like to offer my condolences to your family. Death is such a terrible thing for a family to go through, I actually lost my mom about 3yrs ago. I'm truly grateful that I have the truth about death and look forward to the future when there will be a resurrection of both the righteous and the unrighteous.”— ACTS 24:15. I'm sure you would love to see your dead loved one again in the coming Paradise here on earth! Again so sorry for your loss!!
