

Lone B. Williams

June 27, 1940 - March 21, 2024

LONE BURNETT WILLIAMS was born 27 June 1940 to the late Miss Josephine Cobb in North Carolina.

He moved to Baltimore City, where he was employed by a construction and carpentry company and honed his skill. He later worked on the construction of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge and Tunnel to its completion, then worked remodeling homes and became known as the “Neighborhood Handy Man”. People called him Mr. Lawrence or LB. If you needed anything done in your home, Lawrence was the one you called to get it done knowing it would be right.

He loved watching football, WWE wrestling and old westerns. He’d go to his favorite spots, the clubhouse with the fellas or garage working on cars they had or talking about their younger days. He enjoyed listening to his Oldies but Goodies and his favorite Gospels like, The Williams Brothers and The Canton Spirituals.

Lone leaves to cherish his memory to: his wife, Deborah V. Williams; 3 daughters, Shiletha V. Williams, Ebony L. Williams and Monique Bruton; 3 sons, Burnett L. Williams, Lawrence Williams and Eddie Davis Jr.; 2 sons-in-law, JT and Perez; grandchildren, Chantelle, TJ, Ivory, Landon; 8 additional grandchildren 2 great-grandchildren; a special niece Tiffany who called him Cocheece; several relatives and friends.
