

Margaret Amanda Hunter

June 5, 1936 - May 31, 2022

On Friday, June 5, 1936 in Baltimore, Maryland, Margaret "Barkdale" Hunter entered the world. Born the youngest daughter of the late James and Sarah Barksdale's six children, she was preceded in death by all five of her siblings, In life, Margaret was affectionately known as "Maggie" by her family friends and her grandchildren and great grandchildren's chosen term of endearment being "Grammy".

As a strong believer in the Word of God, Margaret accepted Jesus Christ and understood the Power of the Holy Spirit!

Margaret received her early education in the Baltimore Public School System until she was stricken with tuberculosis as a teenager and subsequently hospitalized for two years as a result. It was during her hospitalization that Margaret would meet and befriend the late Daisy Nolley.

After recovering from her lengthy illness, Margaret went on to become a waitress at Read's Pharmacy and Diner. She would later meet, fall in love with, and marry the Edward Hunter. Out of their happy union, the loving couple birthed four girls: Gail Marie, Anna Christine, Donna Doreen, and Deneen Doroithia.

After raising their girls, Margaret would go on to return to the workforce in the employ of McCormick & Company, and would later retire in November of 1991 after 21 years of dedicated services.

Margaret enjoyed watching cartoons, attending church, traveling domestically and abroad, and spending quality time with her beloved grand-children and great grandchildren.

Margaret leaves to cherish her memory her four devoted daughters: Gail Marie, Anna Christing, Donna Doreen, and Deneen Doroithia; five grandchildren: Taivonia I. Jennings, Adrian T. Hayes, Ciara L. Davis (Kevin Davis), Idea S. Kerr, and Lloyd Grant J., four great-grandchildren: Tarod H. Fowlkes, Anthony V. Laing, Treasure M. Wilson-Weedon, and Christian E. Davis; one brother-in-law, Burt Dixon Jr; two sisters-in-law Louise Martin and Rosa Dixon; two God Sons: David Nolley and Bryan Nolley; one God daughter: Brenda Jackson; two daughters-at-heart: Margarita Davis and Andrea Wright; three sons at heart: Rex D. Moore, Mark Lewis, and Joseph Wells; three granddaughter-at-heart; Kymberly Oliver (Darrell Oliver), Ashley Edlow, and Breana Witherspoon; two grandsons-at-heart: Andre' Miller and Jordon Nesmith; one great-grandson-at-heart, Tristan Goods; devoted niece, Ernestine Landrum, and a host of other nieces, nephews, relatives, and friends.
