

Margaret Woolfolk

July 25, 1933 - September 24, 2002

On September 24, 2002 our family circle was broken. Margaret Woolfolk daughter of the late Clyde and Willie Woolfolk, born on July 25, 1933 in Baltimore, Maryland, departed from our midst. She knew and loved the Lord. She received her education at Dunbar Senior High School. "Marda" as she was well known worked several jobs. Her last job before she retired was at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Housekeeping. There she met and made many friends. Marda was a woman who expressed herself "truly". You may not have wanted to here what she had to say, but she was one to get her point across. She enjoyed her Scratch-Off's and Atlantic City. She will truly be missed by many. Preceding her in death was her son, David L. Banks; and grandson, Brian L. Banks. She leaves to mourn tow daughters, Gwendolyn Woolfolk and JoAnne Brown; three sons, Burt A. Tanner, Alvin J. Banks and Andre S. Banks, one daughter-in-law, Cynthia Banks; eleven grandchildren, ten great grandchildren, one sister, Shirley Woolfolk; one brother, Robert Woolfolk; and a host of nieces, nephews, relatives and friends. M-Is for the memories, Oh, so dear, O-If only you could have stayed near T-Is for talks we had along the way, H-Is for hours we shared during the day E-Everlasting tears we'll cry R-remembering you mother, Bye and Bye Your Children Gwen, JoAnne, Burt, Alvin, Steve, and "Mook"

“ Well Margaret, It has been ten years since you left us, and things have never been the same . Each time we loss a member of our family it was hard, so hard, but the way that Alvin left us so suddenly is to much. I hope that you are all together, and your souls are at peace. I miss you Margaret and I Love You. Thanksgiving and now New Years Day, will be very sad for me. Love You, Gwen
