

Mary Regina Carroll

September 20, 1904 - November 22, 2005

MARY REGINA CARROLL was born on September 20, 1904 to Martha and Charles Chew in St. Mary's County, Maryland. She later moved to Jessup, Maryland, where she received her education and lived most of her life. She had two sisters, Ellen and Susie and brother, Charles. She departed this life on November 22, 2005 after a lengthy illness. Mary, affectionately known as "Granny" or "Mom Mary" married the late Floyd Roosevelt Carroll. She had a family including ten children: the late Marie, William, Floyd, Charles, James, Asa, Thomas and Mary, leaving Pearl and Helen. She worked in a canning factory in her early teens, and later supported her family by doing domestic work. "Granny" lived life by her own terms. There was never a misunderstanding about where she was coming from, whether you agreed with her or not. She meant what she said and said what she meant. She strongly believed in God and always kept her faith. She had an uncanny sense of humor that surpassed all others and kept you on your toes... don't let her catch you off guard. She believed in having fun and enjoying life. Most of all, she loved her family. She enjoyed and rarely missed watching "The Price is Right," writing journals, quilting and Oriole baseball. She leaves to mourn: two daughters, Pearl Vaughan and Helen Riggins; niece, Shirley Taylor; nephews, William and Butch Chew; thirteen grandchildren, a host of great- and great-great-grandchildren, grand-nieces and -nephews, including devoted great-nephew, Kenneth Colbert; good friends and neighbors.
