

Mattie Johnson

April 17, 1905 - September 27, 2001

Obituary Mattie Oglesby Johnson, daughter of the late John and Sara Oglesby, was born on April 17, 1905, in Newberry, South Carolina. She departed this life on September 27, 2001, after a lengthy illness in the John Hopkins Bay View Nursing Home. The Oglesby family migrated to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania during the 1920's. The Oglesby siblings were the late Cornelia Oglesby, Pearl Fowler, John (Buddy) Oglesby, Julius Oglesby, Fannie Mae Freeman, Marie (Rena) Glenn, and Charlie Oglesby. Mattie is the last sibling to pass from the first generation Oglesby family. She was educated in the Newberry public school system. At an early age, Mattie was employed as a seamstress and became a devout Pentecostal worshiper. During the late 1930's, Mattie moved to Baltimore, Maryland, where she met and married the late Mr. Johnson. Out of this union no children were born. A free spirit and proud woman, Mattie traveled extensively and stayed in touch with her family by whatever means necessary: train, bus, phone, and letters. She was devoted to her family. She leaves to mourn: her nieces, Johnnie Brown, Lunette (Tunie) Brown, Essie Coker, Paulette Denkins, Donzella Freeman, Barbara Freeman-Richardson, Delores Johnson, Valerie Jordan, Eula Lindsey, and Jeanita (Nita) Smith; and her nephews: Benny (LaVell) Freeman, Michael Freeman, Larry Freeman, Willie Freeman, Eddie Glenn, Heywood Glenn, John Glenn, Julius Glenn, James (Renard) Robinson, Jerome Robinson, Jerry Robinson, and John Robinson; and a host of other relatives and friends.
