

Deacon Nay Charles Williams

December 9, 1936 - November 11, 2023

Deacon Nay Charles Williams better known as the “Guitar Man”, “Master Barber”, “Mr. Fix It” and “The Farmer Man”, entered eternal rest on November 11, 2023. He was born on December 9, 1936, to the late Jackson Williams and Mary Jane Coppage (Elijah). He was preceded in death by the love of his life, his wife Deaconess Marie S. Williams and son Orlando Williams of Richmond, VA; five siblings, Lizzie Coleman (Leroy), Pauline McWilliams (O’Kelly), Ella B. Lynch (Roger) of Richmond, VA, Maggie Marzette (Billy) of Upper Marlboro, MD and Aaron Williams (Virture) of Hollister, NC. He is survived by two sisters in love, Mollie Bert (June) of Reisterstown, MD, and Penny Solomon (Ben) of Enfield, NC along with a host of many relatives and friends, too numerous to mention.

Deacon Nay Charles and Deaconess Marie committed their love to each other on July 3, 1960. Within this union, both found true love for the rest of their lives. Within 63 years of matrimony, they were blessed with 6 children, Angela Joaquin of Virginia Beach, VA, Debra Williams, Charles Williams (Deborah), Orlando Williams (deceased) Jason Williams Sr. (Elisha) , Christopher Williams Sr, and their honorary son Donald Plummer of Richmond, VA., 17 grandchildren, Terrence Williams, Travis Williams (Thedra), Niketta Phillips (Antonio), Justin Crumpler, Porsche Johnson-Carter, Debreona Wilson, Branton Joaquin, III, Yancy Poole, Landra Taylor, Kenya Williams, Jessica Huge, Jason Williams Jr, Cleveland Williams, Deja Chambliss, Christopher Williams Jr., Jayden Williams, and Donte Beard, 35 great grandchildren and 2 great-great grands.

Deacon Nay Charles was a man of many talents. His love for singing, playing the guitar, organ, and piano was truly his personal way of serving God. When listening to his music, he allowed God to use him and shared his anointing through his fingers to honor the Kingdom of God. Just like his other gifts of being an electrician, a master barber and a farmer, God truly granted favor over his life.
