

Novel J. Williams

September 7, 1916 - September 24, 2002

On Tuesday, September 24, 2002, in Baltimore, Maryland, and Angel was dispatched from heaven at 6:34 a.m. to Sinai Hospital, he shut the worldly eyes of Novel J. Williams. She awakened in a fairer land and a brighter world beyond the skies. Novel entered this world as the youngest of four children born to the late James and Novel Johnson, on September 7, 1916, in Pinewood, South Carolina. She was educated in the public schools of South Carolina. In 1936, Novel married the late Frank Williams, from this union were born two sons and two daughters, Robert, Susie, Matthew and Betty who preceded her in death. For many years, Novel worked for the Henry Rosenberg family from which she retired in the early eighties. A spiritual woman and a true child of God, Novel accepted Christ as her personal Savior at the age of twelve she was baptized at the Salem Baptist Church in Sumter, South Carolina. In 1955, Novel and family moved to Baltimore, Maryland. Once there she united with the Concord Baptist Church at the old site on Franklin and Poppleton Streets under the leadership of Dr. J. M. Raynor. She served as a very faithful member of the Flower Circle, Senior Choir I and the Sunday school. Throughout her illness, she never lost faith in God's power to sustain her, and was ready to meet her Lord and Savior. She had many hobbies, such as shopping, cooking for her family and friends and traveling around the country. Novel leaves a family that is grateful and thankful to God for allowing them to have such happy memories, a devoted daughter, Susie M. Hawkins, a loving son, Robert (Rose) Williams, two sisters, Zilpher

Saunders and Elizabeth King, a son-in-law, James Rhinehart, fifteen grandchildren, twenty-two great grandchildren, a great great granddaughter, and other relatives and dear friends.
